Prioritising Learning and Teaching

Promoting Quality Education

The efficacy of teaching and learning is always in the forefront of the School's development plan, which is well crafted to improve students' learning strategies and to strengthen teachers' professional development.

The School has been actively promoting a Self-regulated Learning Approach so as to create a proactive learning school ambience. For example, not only do students have to compose a Chinese essay weekly and learn via the "Classical Chinese Self-learning App" at their own pace, they are also encouraged to take the initiative to visit the afterschool "Mathematics Self-learning Centre" for their self-improvement. Besides, e-learning has been introduced, in such subjects as English Language, Liberal Studies and Geography, for students to conduct self-regulated learning on different online platforms. Collaborative learning is also promoted through research projects and in-class group work in different subjects, which add greater flexibility and more fun to students' learning experience. In addition, the School has introduced the Lunchtime Reading Periods organised by the Promotion of Reading Team to help students develop a regular reading habit and to promote a good reading culture at school.

In order to raise teaching quality and to strengthen teachers' professional development, teaching staff are encouraged to take part in Peer Observation and Collaborative Teaching for their cross-fertilisation. Teachers of different subjects are often invited to share their experiences in collaborative learning and in catering for learner diversity. On top of that, the School is an active member of various external collaborative schemes, such as the EDB's School-based Support Services, The Chinese University of Hong Kong's Quality School Improvement Project and different Joint-Government School Learning Circles, all of which serve to keep teachers abreast of the latest development in the field of education.

Enhancing IT Education, Nurturing Multidisciplinary Skills with STEM

To well equip students for the everchanging society, the School attaches great importance to Mathematics, Science, Innovation and Technology Education. A school-based STEM education curriculum is tailor-made for junior form students to facilitate their cross-disciplinary learning. For example, to kindle students' passion for science, " 'Gonna Fly Now' Glider Model Competition" and "Mobile Phone Microscope" were held, and "Flipped Classroom" was also put into practice for students to learn abstract concepts and complex theories with the aid of tablet apps and 3D printer. In the senior form curriculum, the School offers a variety of enrichment courses in the hope of enhancing students' problem-solving and creative thinking skills, such as "Forensic Science: Chemistry Elite Training Course" and Mathematics and Science Olympics Competitions training sessions, all of which serve to deepen students' understanding of advanced subject knowledge.

In terms of hardware, the 1 Gbps Internet connection on campus fully supports students' individualised technology-based learning. With the interactive electronic whiteboard installed in specific special rooms, teachers can better interact with students and make their learning more enjoyable. Besides, the School has set up the "STEM Learning Commons", a learning center which provides such cutting-edge resources as 3D printers, robot kits, microcomputers and sensors for students to learn through hands-on experience of assembling and programming based on the self-regulated learning and creative problem-solving programmes designed by teachers. This is to nurture students to be lifelong learners in science and technology, who are well prepared for the challenges in the 21st century.

Cultivating Competent Trilingual Communicators

Our School puts a great emphasis on students' trilingual proficiency. Apart from the school-based junior form Chinese curriculum, the Chinese Department also offers students a wealth of Putonghua co-curricular activities every year. Besides, to create a quality English learning environment for students, the School has an effective English curriculum and a wide range of multi-faceted extra-curricular activities, which aim to raise students' interest in English learning and to strengthen their four macro skills in listening, speaking, reading and writing. In the junior form curriculum, Language Arts module has been introduced to consolidate students' English foundation through poetry writing, film appreciation and short stories reading circles. Besides, all S1 freshmen are required to attend a Summer Bridging Programme so that they can quickly adapt to the English learning environment.

The School also provides students with a multitude of English activities, including such regular ones as "English Speaking Awards Scheme", "English Week", "TWGSS' Got Talent" and "English Bulletin". Our students are equally active in different external competitions, such as HKedCity's TV News, Hong Kong Schools Speech Festival, Joint-Government School English Debating Competition and Drama Competition. Such a wide variety of English activities offer students so many alternative ways of English learning that they must be able to identify one that suits their learning style. Besides, the morning announcements and assemblies are all conducted in English, together with the Lunchtime Speaking Periods which bring junior and senior students together for weekly speaking practice on a school campus that is decorated with English words of wisdom, students are fully and truly immersed in an authentic English speaking environment, which maximises students' exposure to English in everyday life.

Catering for Learner Diversity

As students' academic performance tops the School's list of concern, not only are there regular reviews on the results of all subjects, there are also concrete measures for improvement to address different learning needs of high and low achievers. To unleash the talent of top-notch students, the School has secured the EDB's Diversity Learning Grant to run a series of elite programmes for high flyers in different areas, all of which are conducted by professional instructors and aim to maximise high-achieving students' exposure. The school has nominated a number of students to join external gifted programmes organised by The Hong Kong Academy for Gifted Education such as leadership speech, virtual reality and English literature programmes, and competitions like Cisco Innovation Challenge, Hong Kong Secondary School Health Exhibition Presentation Competition (CUHK) and Asia International Mathematical Olympiad. In order to take care of the individual differences of students, for Chinese, English and Mathematics classes in junior forms, students are streamed into different ability groups to enhance the effectiveness of learning and teaching. A whole school approach is adopted to provide appropriate support for students with special learning needs. Through effective school-based counselling strategies, including group learning activities and individual learning programmes, students receive appropriate support to enhance their academic performance, and social and emotional management skills. The School has also formed the Tutorial Classes Team, which recruits senior form students to tutor junior ones in small groups after school so that students in need can receive individualised attention and timely academic support.

Whole-person Development Nourished with Care and Love

For students' whole-person development, the School actively promotes a caring culture so as to provide better guidance and support throughout students' journey of growth and to develop their positive life attitude. The School organises activities such as "Inter-class Punctuality Competition", "TWGSS Big Clean-up Day", "Enhanced Smart Teen Project" and training camps to develop students' self-discipline and self-management skills. To inculcate in them positive values, there are activities like "Secret Angels" to promote mutual care and peer support. To add, S1 adaptation programmes and S5 graduation camp are held to strengthen students' sense of belonging and deepen their relationships. To boost students' self-esteem and confidence, Inter-class Adventure-based Competition, Outward Bound Camps, "Sunshine Every Teen Scheme" and Merit Award Scheme are organised. Besides, Life-wide Learning Team organises a host of cultural activities at regular intervals to foster students' aesthetic development and to develop their creativity and art appreciation skills. In terms of community services, there are different service learning activities to cultivate students' spirit of caring for serving the community. Also, JPC, Red Cross and Community Youth Club supply plenty of opportunities for students to contribute their best to society. In collaboration with different external parties, Career and Life Planning Team also organises mentorship programme and Careers Expo as well as company visits from time to time to broaden students' horizons.

Through different programmes and activities, the School aims to foster students' whole-person development so that they can give full play to their potential, develop healthy beliefs and establish correct moral values. The School is hence best known for its ethos of simplicity and humility, which is grounded on students and teachers' mutual respect and students' strong bonds and peer support.

Balanced Development beyond the Classroom

A diversity of extra-curricular activities embody the School's teaching philosophy of nurturing students' multiple talents and abilities. A total of 25 extra-curricular clubs and societies fall into four categories, namely intellectual, physical, recreational and social. Through planning and organising activities, students can fully develop their intellectuality and benefit from interaction and collaboration with their peers. Every year, the Students' Association Election and the Joint-Government School Exchange Programme serve to enlarge participating students' social circle and to develop their leadership. In terms of physical, aesthetic and musical development, students' all-round, balanced development of multiple talents is the School's prime concern. For the sake of students' holistic development, different sports teams have been established and the "Aesthetic and Sport Development Scheme" has been introduced to encourage students to take part in a sport or music training at least once a year. The frequent public performances given by the School's Western and Chinese Orchestras are also invaluable opportunities for students to showcase their talents and add a colourful dimension to their school lives.

Global Vision beyond the Bounds

In the spirit of life-wide learning, the School always encourages students to step out of the classroom and go outside Hong Kong to widen their worldview for their self-discovery and better self-understanding. Every year, the National Education Team and Student Exchange Team organise a number of Mainland and overseas exchange programmes, bringing students to Mainland cities such as Beijing, Shanghai, Xian, Nanjing, Suzhou, Jiangxi and Guangzhou, as well as the United Kingdom, Singapore, Malaysia, Taiwan, Japan and Korea. The School and its two sister schools in Zhangjiagang and Jiaying also visit each other regularly. All this is for students to learn beyond the book through cultural exchange for richer life experiences, which pave the way for their future pursuit in the long run.

Passion for Four Houses across Generations

Generations of students' abiding passion for the House culture is one of the TWGSS' long-standing traditions. The four Houses Pine, Plum, Camphor and Bamboo play a leading role in an array of annual school events, ranging from Swimming Gala, Sports Day, Inter-house Music Competition, Inter-house Drama Competition to different ball games and matches. Not only do such House activities help develop students' organisational skills and leadership, students also develop a strong sense of belonging to their House and win profound friendship. The alumni's frequent homecoming to support the House activities and their successors bespeaks that this deep-seated House culture forges a strong bond between the School, its students and generations of graduates over the past half of a decade.

Home-school Cooperation for the Way Forward

Parents, who are valued as one of the School's key stakeholders, have been working closely with the School for students' personal growth. The Parents-Teachers' Association oftentimes organises different networking activities, such as PTA Christmas Party, Weekend Activity Day, Picnic Day, parents' talks and interest classes, in order to strengthen home-school ties. Such a strong culture of home-school cooperation can be best illustrated by parents' voluntary engagement in school projects like the Lunchtime Reading Periods and "Used School Uniforms Recycling Campaign". To facilitate students' learning, the PTA also actively organises different thematic talks and workshops for parents' effective parenting and for their better understanding of their children. Effective home-school communication is also fortified through Parents' Day, S1 Orientation Day, S3 Subject Selection Talk and Parents' Forums and the like. Besides, every year the PTA donates a generous sum of money as scholarships for outstanding students, in addition to its financial support for various school activities, out of sheer parental love to walk with their children through the journey of growth.

TWGSS Alumni Living the Spirit of Integrity

TWGSS alumni are important social pillars and leading lights in different social sectors. While living the spirit of "Integrity" and contributing to the common good in their different social roles, the alumni never cease to remember where they come from and always have in mind their alma mater, teachers and schoolmates. The pictures on the Alumni Association website record many happy moments of alumni reunions and get-togethers at the annual activities organised by the Association, such as Alumni Sports Day, football matches and music performances. Some alumni even donate scholarships to encourage the outstanding performance of their school juniors in both academic and other aspects. The Career and Life Planning Team every so often invites alumni to deliver talks where they share their life experiences and pass the beacon of knowledge onto TWGSS young generations.
